

Nick Masino

President & CEO

Gwinnett Chamber and Partnership Gwinnett

Nick Masino is the President & CEO of the Gwinnett Chamber and Partnership Gwinnett. A U.S. Chamber accredited organization, the Gwinnett Chamber was established in 1947. At the helm, Nick is known for his strong leadership, commitment to Gwinnett County and more than two decades of making an impact in the community and economic development arenas. Before he had an opportunity to finish his first year as President & CEO, the economy was struck by COVID-19. With his leadership, the Gwinnett Chamber became a leader among U.S.

chambers of commerce in regard to safe return to work and essential business. In addition, he has shepherded in the most diverse board of directors in Gwinnett Chamber history, reinvigorated its public policy focus and implemented a new strategic plan.

Previously, he was Partnership Gwinnett's Chief Economic Development Officer where he oversaw the business recruitment and retention efforts for the county. Since Partnership Gwinnett's inception in 2007, it has brought approximately 290 company expansions or relocations, more than 28,000 new jobs, more than 9 million square feet of space filled, and more than $2.1 billion in investment to Gwinnett.

In addition to his day job, Nick serves on a plethora of boards, including: the Regional Business Coalition of Metro Atlanta, the Council for Quality Growth, the Georgia Chamber and The Water Tower Global Innovation Hub @ Gwinnett, among many others.

Known for his influence in the community, he has received many accolades, including Most Notable Georgians, Power 100: Most influential Atlantans and 100 Most Influential Georgians.
